PREFACE

Agriculture is one of the predominant sectors of India economy and contributes around 24% to the country GDP. Presently; in most part of country agriculture is a practiced using conventional technique which lays greater stress on employing expensive fertilizers, pesticides and other chemical augments. The extensive and indiscriminative use of synthetic chemicals leads to decreased soil fertility, low yield, contaminated produce and increased pest resistance. Large part of the farmers' income is spent on procuring these chemicals, which increases additional stress on their already fragile financial health.

The global consumer is increasingly becoming health cautious with diet being the most important aspect in health control agenda. Organic food products with high nutritive value and absence of chemicals are being increasingly preferred over conventional agro-products, which are cultivated using insecticides, pesticides and chemical fertilizers. In spite of these, the Govt. of M.P. is keen to facilitate the development of the sector in M.P. In this regards, the farmers would facilitate use of mechanized cultivation techniques and optimal utilization of farm implements

The focus in this report on values in organic farming. The National Project on Organic farming has implemented for motivation and technical backstopping of the framers through training and demonstrations on use of organic inputs and biogas slurry in Tikamgarh district during 2009-10. Howere, organic farming is undergoing rapid changes. Organic farming is supported by government and NGOs because of the public goods it delivers, such as a better environment, animal welfare, and rural development is supported by Government. Conventional farming too is changing into a more sustainable direction. Ethenic values are always future-directed, inspiring people towards a certain course of action. In organic farming several schools of thought have developed, such as the biodynamic and the ecological ones. Some people were concerned about the decreasing fertility of the soil and the increase of plant and animal diseases in the beginning of the 21st century. Some developed methods of compost making as an alternative to inorganic fertilizers. Others were mainly concerned about the effect of the production of food on human health or the environment.

We are highly indebted to Dr.K.K.Saxena, Director and Dr.T.R.Sharma, Joint-Director, I/c Central Sector Scheme-National Project on Organic Farming (NPOF), Directorate of Extension Services, JNKVV, Jabalpur for guidance, support and continuous inspiration in implementing the Central Sector Scheme-National Project on Organic Farming-2009-10.

The support received from Dr. P.K.Mishra, Dean College of Agriculture, Tikamgarh is greatly fully acknowledged. Dr.R.K.Prajapati SMS (Plant Protection) and I/c NPOF, Dr. B.L.Sahu, SMS (Home Science), Dr. Rupendra Kumar SMS (Agriculture Extension) and Shri-Pramod Prasad Padwar (Computer Science), KVK Tikamgarh too pain for smooth executing the programme which is thankfully acknowledged. The scientist and other staff of the College of Agriculture, Tikamgarh supported the programme which is gratefully acknowledged
